To Stop the Credit Bureaus from Selling your Personal Information:

You can stop Credit Bureaus from making your credit history information available to financial institutions and businesses for marketing purposes. This will cut down on unwanted offers of credit, junk mail, and is very important in order to protect yourself against identity theft. Offers of credit, sent through the mail to your home address can be intercepted by unscrupulous individuals that will use your good credit to open credit accounts to run up large balances.

There is now one number that you can call that will instruct the credit bureaus to stop selling your personal information.

1-888-567-8688
